

Module 8

For this module, I made a couple of small changes to the organization of my Github. I had a handful of modules where I had a couple of different PDFs (Modules 4 & 5 mostly), so I made folders for those modules and put the PDFs into their respective folders. That was essentially the main change that I made. I understand that I will have more modules that will go into my Github, and if I need more than one PDF or document, I will most likely create a folder for each of them as well. If I only have one document for a module, I will just leave it in the main section of my Github, and not try to place it somewhere. I do not feel the need to be super organized with all of my files; the more separate files I have, the longer the path to get to what I'm trying to find. I like my files right there where I can see most of them (not all, of course, I do like a little bit of organization).
